The annual meeting of this body convened this city at 9 o'clock this (Tuesday) mornng, according to adjournment. This is the great holiday festival of Teachers of both sexes in the State. The great crowd ow in convention is better proof than words of the deep interest manifested in the moveent of this deliberative body. The day, though an intensely exciting one here, thus passed off without any disturbance of a bloody character, except a fight or two of individuals.

bloody character, except a fight or two of individuals.

Judge Lecompte was present at the polls, and I freard him say he had voted "for the Constitution with Slavery." Calbonn was also present, and I heard him say he voted "for the Constitution without Slavery." During the day
I heard frequent deep and hearty ourses breathed by these Pro-Slavery voters against Walker and Stanton. On the other hand, the Free State inch, even to Calbonn's face, charged him with attempting to defraud them of their rights, and frequent lond threats, and such remarks as "every one of them ought to be hung up right off," coupled with muttered oaths, might be heard at almost every corner.

Douglas' speech upon the Lecompton Constitation has created quite a remained among the population decidedly in his favor.

CHICAGO FRIDAY MORNING JANUARY 1, 1858.

s New Year's addresses argall the go, we think it quite appropos to address roe on the subject of Self-Protection! Eighteen hundred and firty-seven has departed, and will soon be " like a tale that is told," but not to be forgetten, from its disastrous and ruinous consequences. The Panie has been amongst as; banks, which were considered the strongholds of the mercantile community, have caved in ;" Tinkham, Swift and others, bave gone down, taking others with them, and looking up their deposits, which are a little too eafe to be agreeable. The question arises as to whether a thing is lost if you know where it is? Not always, we answer; it depends upon whether it is locked hoids. People are apt to be "penny-wise and pound foolish" and trust too much to luck. Goods can be insured but paper must be put out of the way of fires and burglars. The last year's disasters should cause every man to be more car-ful for the future. Let every man make up his mind to do better, and be more cautious and the best and first step toward security is to ge insured and buy a safe. We have one, and se burglars. We were out the other day, and called on our friends, S. H.
